VA Doctors Split Services At Hospitals

Two veteran physicians with the Veterans Administrations McKinney hospital will take charge of respective departments at the VA's Lisbon hospital in Dallas, efective Friday, July 1.

They will also retain supervision of similar operations as the McKinney hospital.

The two men are Dr. B. K. Lovell, chief of radiology at McKinney who will asssume that post at both hospitals, and Dr. John P. North, chief of surgery at McKinney who will become chief of surgery for both hospitals.

In confirming the reassignment of top supervisory personnel, Dr. W. H. Buckholts, manager of the hospitals, said the move is being made "to provide a more effecient service at both institutions."

"We feel we can do a better job and provide a more efficient service to veterans by having Dr. Lovell and Dr. North in charge of both institutions," Dr. Buckholts said.

Dr. North has been chief of surgery at McKinney since shortly after operation of the hospital was taken over by VA from the Army in 1946. Dr. Lovell joined the McKinney hospital about a year later.

Dr. Buckholts said equipment is being installed in the new hospital building "as fast as we can," but he said no definite date has yet been set for opening of the 502-bed unit.

Veterans Oppose Moving Out-Patient Clinic

Representatives of all Veterans Organizations in the Dallas area, stated that they unanimously oppose the removal of the Out-Patient Clinic from the Dallas VA Regional Office, 912 South Ervay, to the Lisbon V. A. Hospital.

After hearing Dr. H. H. Earp, chief medical director of the Out-Patient Services, V. A. Central office, Washington, D. C., the Veteran organizations representatives pointed out that such a move would serve only to disrupt the efficient operation of the Dallas Regional V. A. Office's services to the veterans of this region. It would serve only to confuse the many out of town veterans coming to Dallas to attend to their veterans affairs.

"It is the opinion of all veterans representatives that such a move is unnecessary." W. H. McGregor, American Legion Service Officer, pointed out "that the contemplated move would hinder, and slow down the efficient one-stop service to veterans now served by the Dallas Adjudification section, Service Officers and other veterans services being downtown and the Out-Patient Clinic operating at Lisbon, that the shuffling of records between 912 South Ervay and Lisbon would slow down services now being rendered to the veterans of this area. The American Legion representative also pointed out "that less than 4 percent of all veterans being called in for examination and treatment would require hospitalization or consultation with hospital physicians." He further stated that VA officials were unable to satisfactorily show how services to veterans would be improved by such a move and also that the Dallas V. A. Regional Out-Patient Clinic is one of the most efficiently operated in the chain of VA Out-Patient facilities."

Hymie Greenspan, national vice-commander of the Jewish War Veterans stated "that Dr. Earp did not convince the veterans representatives, that the transfer was necessary, nor did he justify the removal of the modern 5 year old out patient facilities at 912 S. Ervay."

Lewis J. Murphy, past national commander of the Disabled American Veterans and a National Service Officer at the Dallas Regional Office declared "that the move would be expensive, and would occupy space that could be used for other purposes." He also said in conclusion that a number of beds would be lost in such a move, which are badly needed in the Dallas area."

Representatives from the Disabled American Veterans, American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Jewish War Veterans, United Spanish War Veterans, Veterans of World War I and the Veterans Affairs Commission attended the meeting in the conference room of the Dallas V. A. Regional Office.

Bill Elkins, past Dept. of Texas Commander of the American Legion brought out the fact that Representative Olin Teague's committee on Veterans Affairs is opposed to the transfer as proposed by the Veterans Administration. He also called attention to the fact that Congressman Teague had sent two members of the committee staff, Oliver Meadows and C. N. Patterson, who reported that the move was not necessary and would be unwise.

JOHN M. PATTERSON, Alabama's Attorney General speaking in Dallas this week stated that that organized crime is like an infectious disease. If organized crime gets a toe-hold in a city it eats away destroying everything that is good and right until you have a filthy situation like that which existed in Phenix City, the young dark haired official said. Mr. Patterson's father, Albert Patterson was attorney general of Alabama, when he was murdered on June 17, 1954. At the time of the murder, Phenix City was doing a $100,000,000 business in sin and crime. Mob influence was reaching into the polls, the courts and churches, Patterson told his listeners. Vice can get set in any place. Organized crime is the end result. It takes the cooperation of the people to keep it out.

Dallas Brothers Continue Work Which Their Father Founded

(Editor's Note. Sunday's Dallas Times Herald carries a picture and write-up of Joseph M. Haggar Jr. and his brother, E. R. Haggar, prominent trouser manufacturers of Dallas who are carrying on a work that was founded by their father in 1926. One of their plants is located in McKinney — The McKinney Pants Manufacturing Company. The item, as it appeared in the Dallas paper was captioned "Illustrious Sons: Haggar Brothers Real Irish Fans." Their host of friends here will be pleased to read the reproduction of the article in the Daily Courier-Gazette and Weekly Democrat-Gazette, as follows:)

A pair of the firmest Notre Dame University rooters in Dallas are E. R. and Joseph M. Haggar, Jr.

Both are graduates of the university and follow its activities—both athletic and otherwise—with zeal. They'll probably be at the head of a vanguard which will journey to South Bend, Ind., this fall for the game which pits the Irish against Southern Methodist University.

Joe is president of the Notre Dame Club of Dallas and E. R. who is known as "Ed," was president several years ago.

WORLD LEADERS

Ed is president of the Haggar Co., the world's leading producers of slacks. Joe is secretary-treasurer of the family-owned and operated firm. Joe lives at 6903 Merrilee Lane and Ed at 4945 Wedgewood Lane.

The trouser manufacturing company was founded in 1926 by their father, J. M. Haggar, Sr., who today serves as chairman of the board.

From an inconspicuous beginning in the Santa Fe Building, the company has grown to a five-plant operation which produces more slacks for men and boys than any other in the world. Plants are located in Greenville, Waxahachie, McKinney and Dallas, and a new one in Corsicana is to open soon.

CLOSE-KNIT FAMILY

The Haggars are a close-knit fun-loving family. The entire group meets for dinner two or three times each week. "Then we can have a board of directors meeting any time we wish," Ed joked.

The two brothers have held their present jobs since 1951 and are now taking over much of their company's operation. Ed handles selling and promotion and Joe runs production.

"But Dad is the guiding light around here," Joe declared. Ed joined in, "He's the chief all right —and that's what we call him."

Together, the three of them talk business with the enthusiasm of youngsters, which might only be disrupted by one of the brothers taking a playful swat at the other.

ACTIVITIES TOLD

Both Ed and Joe have been working in the plant since they were kids, and have since worked in every department.

After graduation from Notre Dame in 1938, Ed took a fulltime job. It was interrupted only from 1942 to 1945, when he served as an Air Force captain.

He is now a director of both the American Institute of Men's and Boy's Wear and the Trouser Institute of America. On the civic side, he is a director of the Chamber of Commerce and vice-chairman of the Civil Service board.

Ed is a member of the Knights of Columbus, the Serra Club, Lakewood Country Club and the Variety Club. He is a member of Christ the King Catholic Church.

ENJOYS SWIMMING

A weekend golfer, the 38-year-old executive shoots in the mid-80's. He enjoys swimming with his family at the Lakewood pool.

The family consists of his wife, the former Patricia Ann Daley, and five children: Patty Jo, 10; E. R., Jr., 8; James 5; Mary Alice, 4, and Michael, 1.

Joe is also a golfing fan and shares an interest with his brother in many of the same civic and social activities. But he has one hobby over which both are happy, though only Joe participates.

It is quail shooting. Joe is their father's hunting companion, an arrangement which Ed enjoys since he doesn't care for the sport and said, laughing, "It takes the responsibility off of me."

SERVED IN NAVY

Joe, 30, graduated from Notre Dame in 1945 and spent the following year as an ensign in the Navy. He went into the firm after the naval hitch.

He is a member of the Knights of Columbus, Serra Club, Lakewood Country Club and worships at St. Thomas Catholic Church.

An active worker in the Boy Scouts, Joe is a director of the Community Chest and a member of advisory board of St. Paul's School of Nursing. He is a director of the Texas Bank and Trust Co.

Married tothe former Isabell Salloum, he is the father of three children: Lydia Mary, 6; J. M., III, 4, and Marian Rose, 1.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Kirkpatrick and Mrs. Jim Goodner have returned from ten days' visit in Independence, Texas.

BOBBY RIGGS, MRS. APPLE WINNERS IN CC TOURNEY

By FRED DICKINSON

Bobby Riggs, a young McKinney High School star, and Mrs. Addie Bob Apple of Plano, a smooth swinging veteran, won top honors in the McKinney Country Club's big July Fourth golf tournament that drew about seventy-five players out onto the links over the long week-end.

Riggs' victory was another evidence of the growing ability of McKinney's young high school foursome that captured district honors and placed high in the regional meet, last spring.

The powerful youngster was putting well and hitting for the far places as he defeated Jack Smith, another fine young golfer in the finals, 2 up and 1 to play. This came on top of a long uphill battle that Riggs won from Otho Nitcholas, another sharp veteran in the semi-final round, Monday morning. In that one, Riggs had to come from behind and capture Nos. 16, 17 and 18 to square the match. In the ensuing play-off, he won on the first hole.

Mrs. Apple won her championship in a long, keenly played battle with Mrs. Catherine Wysong in the finals. This was one of the best matches in the women's division in the club' history. It was close all the way as both Mrs. Apple and Mrs. Wysong played consistenly fine golf. Both are former club champions, and they waged a calm but brilliant battle all the way. Mrs. Wysong went 1 up on No. 2 but Mrs. Apple squared the match on No. 4 with a par three. They turned the front nine even. The first break came on No. 11 when Mrs. Apple forged ahead with a long put that brought a par 4. She upped her advantage with another long put on No. 13 but lost it immediately when she hit her second shot out of bounds on No. 14 which Mrs. Wysong promptly won with a par. On No. 15, Mrs. Apple won with a 5 and again lost it immediately on No. 16 to another par by Mrs. Wysong. Mrs. Apple again came through with a good putt on No. 17 to forge back ahead and take the championship.

The brilliant golf in this match was reflected by the medal scores of the two contestants; Mrs. Wysong shooting an 36 and Mrs. Apple, an 88. The closeness is attested by the fact that they halved 9, six of them in a row.

In the men's championship, Jack Smith jumped off to a 1 up average when he birdied No. 1. Smith was brilliant all afternoon but could not match the fine putting of Riggs and the youngster's consistently good recovery from plaguing trips into the rough. Riggs squared the match on No. 3 when he birdied the long hole across the creek. They played even through the next three holes and on No. 7 Riggs went ahead for the first time and stayed there with a par 4. He added to his advantage when he outlasted Smith on No.10 6-5. He again birdied the long creek hole with a 4 on No. 13. This 4 scored on the long alternate, 530-yard hole was one of the best displays of the tournament. Riggs' long second shot almost brought him on the green and an approach hot that bounced straight up and down by the pin made the birdie an easy one. He lost the next one when Smith birdied the short par 3 No. 13 with a long putt. Smith parred No. 16 to cut the advantage to 1-up but Riggs had the stamina and went on to win No. 17 and the match, 2 up and 1 to play.

In the first flight, Roy Brockman won the title with a sound 5-4 White got the satisfaction of having made one of the two spectacular shots of the tournament — an "eagle" 2 on No. 1. This feat accomplished in the semi-finals against Dr. R. P. Hays had not been done in about twenty years. White made his 2 with a long drive and an 8-iron shot.

In the final round against Brockman, however, he was having trouble with straying tee shots and the long hitting Brockman grabbed a long advantage and held it to win going away.

In the second flight, Paul Hargrove, a Dallas visitor, won with a 7-6 defeat of Paul Addington of Wylie, one of the club's hardest playing members who made a real impression in this first tournament he has entered. Lee Finch of Sherman won a scoring 1 up battle with Kenneth Eubanks in the finals of the third flight. The fourth flight went to John Gay who defeated Senator Ray Roberts, 1 up in another ding-dong battle. The fifth flight championship went to Cliff Arnspeiger, another real veteran, who shot some of the best golf of his career to defeat A. H. Eubanks in the finals, 2-1. In the sixth flight, long hitting Paul Hardin defeated Bowen Williamson in the finals. Seventh flight laurels went to Bob Knappage of Dallas who defeated Elliott Knott, 1 up.

In the women's division, Miss Jauna Keith of Van Alstyne defeated Mrs. June Watters, 2-1, in the finals of the first flight; second light honors went to Mrs. Odell Knott with a 1 up victory over Mrs. Louise Brockman, while third light winners were Mrs. Janie Scott who scored a 1 up victory over Mrs. Jennie Lou Cox. Tommy White defeated Jimmy Young, 5-4 to win the junior tournament.

Following the completion of play Monday afternoon, President Jewell Abernathy of the Club presented handsome trophies to the winners and the runner-up in each flight of the men and women's divisions. The Junior division winners were presented with swimming masks, baseball and identification bracelets as prizes.

The Tournament was sponsored by the club for all members and their guests from any and all places and the results were very pleasant. Guests were registered from all over the North Texas Area. Abernathy is President; and Kenneth Eubanks, vice-president of the club. The Secretary-Treasurer is Alfred M. Scott, and the Tournament Committee is composed of Coleman White and Kenneth Eubanks, co-chairman; assisted by Mrs. Lou Jouette and Mrs. Janie Scott. The Women's Golf Association assisted greatly in arranging the tournament and the entertainment. Mrs. Mary Martha Abernathy is president of the Women's Golf Association.

All in all it was a fine week-end for the club and the golfers of McKinney and the entire area, one well in keeping with the club's announced policy of trying to entertain its members and the area's golfers on every holiday and thus keep them off the highways as the "sudden death."

The golf tournament proceded some of the most spectacular shooting in the history of the club. In the qualifying round, Saturday Nathan White of Plano scored a hole-in-one on No. 4. In the tourney, itself, Elliott White scored an "eagle" on No. 1; and the McKinney High Lions golf team jumped into the spotlight, again when two of its young members, George Comegys and Jerry Williamson set some sort of record for tournament play, here, by battling 29 holes before Williamson won a 1-up victory, in the opening round of the first flight.

West Zone In Junior League Omits 3rd Round

Managers of teams in the West Zone of the Collin County Junior League, met Thursday night, at which time a decision was made not to play a third round. Four of the teams in the West Zone—Prosper, Plano, Allen and Frisco, decided on a two weeks schedule until the East Zone finished regular play.

After that time the play off games will begin between winning teams in the two zones.

Nathan White Scores Hole-In-One At C. C.

Nathan White of Plano, one of the McKinney Country Club's top golfers, scored a hole in one on the par three No. 4 hole at the club, Friday.

In so doing, he joined one of the world's most select groups—golfers who have scored an "ace" on the tough, rolling McKinney Country Club layout.

In fact, this feat has been accomplished so few times in the history of the club that Tom and Pete Perkins of the Daily Courier-Gazette and Weekly Democrat-Gazette, have announced that the papers are giving Mr. White a trophy for his feat. Further, a trophy will be awarded to any golfer who accomplishes it in the future.

White, a Plano merchant, was playing in a threesome with Paul C. (Bud) Young of McKinney and Jim Caldwell of Wichita Falls at the time he scored the hole-in-one. He and Caldwell were playing in the first round of the championship flight in the club's Fourth of July tourney in which White is one of the favorites. He was a finalist in the club tourney's championship bracket, last year.

The hole-in-one helped him defeat Caldwell, 2-1. It was scored with a seven iron on the blind No. 4 hole, 130 yards and uphill. The last hole-in-one scored at the local club came two years ago on the same hole. The feat was accomplished then by Mrs. Tomina Lovell, a club champion in the women's division.

Very few other golfers in the club's half century of operation have managed to score an "ace" at the local layout—and some of the best golfers of all time have tried the local course. In fact, most McKinneyites believe the record is probably the lowest in the country for a nine-hole course. The only two holes with any possibilities along this line are the "blind" No. 4 where White scored his "ace." and the No. 9 hole, normally 180 yards long. The latter has a terrace-type green with a big drop on each side. Both holes are plagued by prevailing cross winds.

Witnesses state that White's ball hit on the green about three feet in front of the pin, bounced once and dropped into the hole. The pin was bent at the time by a stout South wind, the cross wind mentioned above.

Denton Defeats Ramblers To Win 19 To 15 Score

The Denton Bears exploded in the sixth inning to score a total of 14 runs on five hits, five walked, a hit, and three errors, and overcome the 10 to 2 lead, the Ramblers had chalked up to ice the game away, to take a 16 to 10 lead. The final score of this North Texas Semi-pro League game was 19 to 15, in favor of the Bears, although the Ramblers outhit them 15 to 12.

Jim Hess and Rex Curtis homers for Farmersville. Jim Hess and Bo White led the Ramblers hitters, 3 for 5, Hess with 2 doubles and a homer and White with 2 doubles and a single. Perry Morris got 2 for 3, 2 doubles.

Anna 11, VA Hospital 1

The league leading Anna Coyotes downed McKinney VA Hospital 11-1 at Anna Monday night in a North Texas League game before a fair holiday crowd.

Anna counted 2 in the first, 2 in the fourth, and tallied 6 in the seventh to "ice" the game. They scored a lone marker in the eighth to complete their scoring for the night. VA's lone tally came in the bottom of the fourth.

Archie Maples started for VA and pitched creditable ball until the seventh when he tired and gave way to Roy Anderson who finished the game. Maples was the loser.

Roy Hall went all the way for Anna, and although he gave up 9 hits, he kept them well-spaced.

Firstbaseman Red Shaw, with a double and 2 singles in 5 trips, paced Anna's 11-hit attack, along with Centerfield Gerald Jensen who had 2 doubles in 4 times at bat.

Leftfielder Denny Hays had a double and two singles in 4 official trips in leading VA. Shortstop Charlie Lovelady, Third Baseman Cleburne Eldridge, and Rightfielder Bill Crawford, each with 2 for 4, secured the remainder of VA's base hits. Lovelady had a double also.

Anna and McKinney will meet again Thursday night at Anna in the return game of their series.

The win was Anna's 16th against only 3 losses in league play while VA still holds down the second spot in the standings with a 12-3 record after their Monday night loss to the Coyotes.

Anna and VA had split their two 2-game series before Monday night's game, and if VA beats the Coyotes Thursday night, the two clubs will end their league schedule for 6 games against each other even-stephen.

"Return Something To The Soil--Or The Soil Will Turn Against You"

...News From The... COUNTY AGENT

By V. L. DAHLBERG

SWEETCLOVER IN TEXAS

Despite the development of many improved varieties, sweetclover, one of the oldest soil building legumes, remains the most widely adapted and recommended for use in Texas.

"Through more than 60 years of testing at Texas experimental stations, sweetclover gained and has retained a leading position in modern farming practices," says, D. R. C. Potts, agronomist at Texas A & M College.

As early as 1894 plant scientists had noted the value of sweetclover as "a renovating crop for enriching worn lands."

Madrid and Hubam are the more important sweetclover varities now grown in the state. Evergreen and annual yellow-flavored sweetclover are of lesser adaptability.

Sweetclover provides abundant grazing and when harvested in a profitable hay and silage crop, Dr. Potts notes in a recent publication, "Sweetclover in Texas."

The protein and phosphorous content of this legume is described as "excellent". At Temple, steers on sweetclover-oat pasture gained up to 2.1 pounds daily.

Production of sweetclover seed has added substantially to Texas farm income in recent years, averaging 11,060,000 ponnds annually for the period 1950-53. Most of it was produced in the Blackland and Grand Prairie regions. Harvested yields averaged 150 to 300 pounds of seed an acre.

Sweet clover adds nitrogen to the soil makes the soil more friable increasing aeration and provides a protective land cover. Maximum soil benefits are obtained by harvesting a seed crop and returning the crop residue to the soil.

BINDWEED CAN BE CONTROLLED

Bindweed can be controlled on large acreages of cropland through competitive cropping, intensive cultivation and the use of 2,4-D.

These practices are recommended as a result of experiments conducted in the Texas Panhandle sine 1949 by A. F. Weise, agronomist for the Amarillo Experiment Station and H. E. Rea, agronomist for the main Station at College Station.

Wheat was the best competitive crop used. Sorghum was not easily established during the summer when the weed were growing vigorously.

A fallow-wheat system, using intensive cultivation during the fallow periods, eliminated 92 percent of the weeds in three years.

The 2,4-D was applied in the fall before the wheat was planted or in the spring when the wheat was fully tillered.

Peaches or bindweed up to main an acre in size were eradicated with applications of soil sterilants, such a sodium chloride, Concentrated Borascu, Atlacide, Polybor chlorate and Karmex W at rates of 5,16, 7 12 and three-eights pounds respectively, per square rod. One application of a soil sterilant seldom completely eliminated bindweed retreatments usually were necessary for completer eradication.

Complte results of these studies are given in the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station's bulletin 802. Copies are available from the Agricultural Information Office, College Station, Texas.

Makes 4 servings.

MASTER MIX SAVES BAKING TIME

Shorten your baking time on these hot summer days by using an easy-to-do master mix.

Women find that the homemade master mix saves pennies too, according to Extension food and nutrition specialists.

To make the mix you combine the dry ingredients with the shortening. Use a pastry blender and mix until you have the consistency of corn meal. Store in a covered container until ready for use.

Biscuits, cornbread or muffins can be made in a quick jiffy simply by adding liquid.

The master-mix recipe is given in B-176 QUICK BREADS . . . Ask for your copy at your local county Extension office, or write the Agricultural Information Office.

ICE CREAM AND SPUDS . . . PLENTIFUL IN JULY

Potatoes and ice cream are headliners on the USDA's plentiful food list for July.

"In checking food stocks in this area to determine what should be on the plentiful list, we found supplies of fresh fruits and vegetables larger than any time since last fall."

They include limes, lemons, watermelons, cantaloups, tomatoes, green beans, cabbabe, lettuce, beets and sweet corn.

Also, canned and frozen lemon and line juice, small size prunes and pinto beans are in good supply.

Beef, frozen halibut, broilers and fryers are the only meat on the July plentiful foods list.

Milk and related dairy products as well as rice, lard, vegetable fats and oil continue plentiful.

BALANCE BUDGET AND DIET WITH MILK

Milk will give you more food value per dollar than any other food, according to Extension food and utrition specialists. If you buy all your milk, your food dollar can be stretched even further by using evaporated and nonfat dry milk in cooking.

It's difficult to have a balanced diet without including milk. Research shows, too, that regardless of age, we all need the food value milk offers.

Studies show that women especially are not drinking the milk they need each day — neither are their teen-age daughters. This may be partly due to the fact that many people think that milk is fattening. It isn't. A glass of whole milk has fewer calories than a serving of many other foods. There are only about 160 calories in a glass (eight ounces) of whole milk and each ounce is packed with food value. A serving of lean beef has about 300 calories. Two buttered biscuits have about 350 calories and a slice of apple pie contains about 375 calories.

Drink skim milk, if you're trying to lose a few pounds . . . It has approximately half the calories of whole milk, but you will still be getting the important minerals, vitamin and protein.

When energy lags — in midmorning or afternoon — try a cold glass of milk for a "lift that lasts."

Rainfall Five Inches Below Normal For Year

Rainfall for the year, ending June 30, midnight, is nearly five inches short of normal, according to Capt. Roy F. Hall, local weather observer.

Capt. Hall's gauge, located at his home on Barnes St., in McKinney, has registered a total of 17.37 inches through Wednesday afternoon for the first six months of 1955. Other sections of the county have reported greater amounts but, since Capt. Hall reports to the U. S. Weather Bureau for this section, his measurements are considered official.

Normal rainfall for the first half of the year in this area is 22.36 inches, leaving McKinney 4.99 inches shy of normal.

June, through Wednesday afternoon, had produced a total of 3.65 inches. This came from showers that fall as follows: June 4, .25; June 5, only a trace; June 8, 1.05; June 9, .04; June 16, 1.05; June 18, 1.25; June 19, .10, and June 22, .01 inch. Normal for June is 3.70 inches. Rainfall by months in McKinney during 1955, with normal rainfall shown in parenthesis, is as follows: January, 1.69 (2.63); February, 2.32 (3.12); March, 2.91 (302); April, 1.99 (4.59); May, 4.81 (5.40), and June 3.65 (3.70).

Wylie City Limits To Be Extended By Some 47.49 Acres

The City Council at Wylie, in Southeast Collin County, has completed negotiations for extending the city limits of the municipality in two directions. Two tracts, involving a total of 51.49 acres, were involved in the annexing ordinances passed by Wylie's governing body.

One tract, located Southeast of the city, contains 47.49 acres and is owned by John L. Bostic, Jr. It is the property formerly owned by L. M. Gayler, and is adjacent to the property now being developed by John and Jack Bostic, there.

The other tract contains 4 acres belonging to Ollie Addington and is located just North of Wylie.

The action of the Council, in cooperation with the affected property owners, is the first such extension of the City Limits since the town's incorporation.

Council members this week indicatd that this action was the first in a series of annexations planned within the near future.

LOCAL MAN DONS SHORTS TO "BEAT THE HEAT"

Frank Bass, McKinney produce dealer, is setting the styles for local business men — or produce men, anyway. Mr. Bass, shown above is wearing Bermuda shorts to "beat the heat" as he displays an exhibit of Bermuda onions at his Farmer's Market located on Highway 75 and East Hunt Street.

Mr. Bass and Jess Stiff are co-owners of the Farmers Market, which business has been in operation at the present location since March, 1954. They deal in all kinds of fruits and vegetables, both wholesale and retail, and at the present time are specializing in "home-grown" tomatoes, onions, potatoes, roasting ears, peppers and practically every kind of vegetable. Their fruit line consists of watermelons, canteloupes, apricots, plums and many others which are in season. The market is open from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. seven days a week.

Frank Bass has been engaged in the produce business for some twenty years. In fact he "grew up" in the business his father, J. L. Bass, having been one of the county's outstanding truck farmers and produce men for many years. The elder Mr. Bass is a resident of the Bishop community.

Jess Stiff, also a Collin County reared boy, has been in business in McKinney for a number of years, being an expert automotive repairman, before entering the produce line of work.

Assisting Messrs. Bass and Stiff in the business are the former's daughters, Misses Geraldine and Frankie Bass, and Carrol Coleman. Mrs. Jess Stiff operates a "Sno-Cone" stand on the lot adjoining the Farmers' Market, famous for those "Tish's Delish" snow cones.

McKinney Men Attend Industry Meet In New York

New York got a good look at Texas this week, and evidently liked what it saw.

More than 300 Texans made the trip to the eastern metropolis to help the Sales Executives Club of New York observe at its weekly luncheon on June 28, "Texas Day in New York."

The Texans and others who had some type of manufacturing operation in Texas gave thousands of prizes exemplifying Texas made products. Prizes ranged from custom made hats to Texas-made feather dusters. Each of the more than 1,400 who crowded into the Roosevelt Hotel Ballroom carried away souvenirs of the Lone Star State. It was the largest crowd ever club. Many were turned away because of lack of space.

Governor Allan Shiver was the principal speaker of the day and he had much to say about what Texas has to offer in the way of industrial opportunity.

The Governor called especial attention to the important position Texas is taking in the field of manufacturing stating that the number of manufacturing plants in Texas today is appriximately 9,000 or about double that of 20 years ago. He stated that Texas ranks first in the nation in the production of oil and gas, sulphur, asphalt, bromine, helium, crystalline graphite, magnesium and oyster shells.

"Sice 1944 Texas has produced more than 40 per cent of the oil and gas," the Governor said. "As of January, 1955 there were 4,539 listed oil fields and 3,648 separate gas reservoirs in 1,550 fields."

The Governor called attention to the growing importance of the chemical industry in Texas, stating that it has grown from an infant industry employing 7,000 persons in 1953, to a ginat industry employing more than 40,000 people in Texas and with a production which now represents a total annual value added by manumacturing of more than $600,000,000.

Texas has many other important resources the Governor added, and called attention to the iron ore, limestone, sandstone, clay, lignite, forests and aluminum.

In listing the reasons why manufacturing concerns are coming to Texas he mentioned the proximity of basic raw materials, intelligent native labor, low-cost electric power and gas, excellent transportation, sound financial structure, available sites with room to grow, and a ready and growing market. He added that one of the most important reasons is that Texas welcomes industry and is doing everything possible to maintain a good buiness, social and economic climate.

At the end of his talk, Governor Shivers was given a standing ovation by the crowd.

James H. Pipkin, vice presdient of The Texas Company, introduced the Governor and W. W. Lynch, president of Texas Power & Light Company, was master of ceremonies. Mr. Lynch introduced some 60 persons who sat at the head table.

McKinney was represented at the meeting by W. T. Dungan, president of the Chamber of Commerce, and A. H. (Buzz) Witherspoon, chairman of the CC Industrial Committee.

Student Nurses Get Practical Training At Local Hospital

Importance of training older women for practical nursing work is stressed in the June issue of the magazine, "Practical Nursing," by Miss Athria McElwreath, instructor at the Samuel H. Kress Foundation School for Practical Nurse Training, Texas State College for Women at Denton. Miss Margaret Kirkpatrick is director of the school.

Graduates of the TSCW school have learned that older women often do just as well and sometimes better than the young people in this field of work, the article points out.

Students are classified by age as follows: Young, 17-24; mature, 25-49; older, 50 and above.

When the school opened three years ago, following a grant of $77,000 to TSCW by the Samuel H. Kress Foundation, age limits were designated as 17 to 50, with the thinking that they would later be lowered to 45.

Miss McElwreath wrote:

"However, among the applicants interviewed that summer there were a few women just over 50 who seemed so well qualified by health status, previous successful experience in other fields, and genuine desire to become practical nurses that we decided to adult them by special permission."

Since then the school has graduated four classes and has two in training.

After reviewing experiences with the first two age groups, Miss McElwreath writes:

"Our conclusion is that we will continue to accept students fifty and over. Their success will be in part determined by good health; by having been successful in the field in which they have worked, whether it was inside or outside the home situation; in having solved their own personality and family problems in logical ways; and by their need to find new ways to give useful service.

"In the clinical practice field the older woman's approach to sickness and even to death itself in calm and matter of fact; these are experiences which she has faced and accepted already. These students often are especially appreciated but the sick person who needs much patient, unhurried care. Their observation of symptoms is apt to be made with good judgment; doctors tend to have confidence in them. On the whole they are not as acceptable to the busy head nurse as the younger nurses are because they do not acquire speed and master techniques requiring fine finger coordination a steadily. Yet, notably, from this age group one gradute has been employed as an operating room circulating nurse, one is considered both fast and accurate on a busy surgical floor, and one is considered an excellent employee in the central supply room.

"When success is judged from the point of view of personal satisfaction in accomplishment, this group represents a highly successful part of the practical nurse body. It is here that we see the rejuvenating effects of a 'second chance' to become an important member of society. Mothers whose families have grown up and left them while they are still comparatively young but feeling "not needed" find a way to use their nothing abilities again. Many of them say they 'always wanted to be a nurse' or have been doing practical nursing and felt the need of learning to do it better.

"Among the 'older group' absences have been practically nil. These students put themselves whole-heartedly into the task of study and enjoy the hospital experience. They, on the whole, fit beat into private duty or a medical or pediatric division where the pace is not too fast; yet some of them are successful in areas where precision and speed are essential."

The TSCW practical nursing students spend one term in the center on Oakland Avenue across from the college campus and eight months in the practice field either at Flow Memorial Hospital or at the City-County Hospital in McKinney.

The students come from all of the North Texas area not served by Dallas and Fort Worth. Is is the aim of the TSCW school to train students from the rural and small city areas who would return to these areas for practice after graduation, Miss McElwreath points out.
